

After The Stragglers

EFFORTS TO PREVENT ARRESTS
BEING MADE FOR THE SAKE OF REWARDS.

George W. Smith heard that a sober sailor had been arrested and he complained to Chief of Detectives Taylor, saying he was going to investigate. Smith had been informed that two or three men of the U. S. S. Raleigh while sober and on their way to their ship were submitted to the indignity of arrest. The Detective Chief and ex-supervisor had a few minutes heart-to-heart talk.

The police are handling stragglers from Naval vessels in the most considerate manner, even submitting without protest to the inebriated abuse of those taken to the station for identification or detention. While the men to whom Smith refers may, as they said, have been going to their ship, the police had every right to take them to the station for the Raleigh was scheduled to sail at 11 o'clock in the morning and it was early in the afternoon when the boys were placed under arrest and taken to the Raleigh which did not get away until 4 o'clock, five hours late, the delay having been caused by just such men who were "sober and going to their ship" when they were jolly good-and-ready.

Sheriff Iaukea and Admiral Very had a consultation, the Sheriff calling on the Commandant of the local Naval Station to inform him that he wanted to handle men from the ships of war, who might drink too much or otherwise get into the hands of the police, in a manner that would not result in their being booked aboard as stragglers unless they were really stragglers. The Admiral thanked the Sheriff but informed him that the commanders of the vessel were those with whom arrangements should be made. Chief Taylor and Officer Reeves called aboard the cruisers Raleigh and Cincinnati and interviewed officers to the end that masters-at-arms be sent to the police station in the morning to see what men might have been detained there during the night so that they might be taken back to their ships and not held and so classed as stragglers. The cruiser officers appreciated the courtesy and said so.

The police rendered most valuable assistance in rounding up stragglers yesterday for the Raleigh and but two of her men are left here, to be taken by the Cincinnati or one of the Big Four. The remark was made in connection with the Smith incident that there appeared, in at least the case of the officer who arrested the men first referred to, to be an undue desire to get the reward offered for the return of each man who is a straggler. Investigation shows the insinuation to be without good foundation.

BASEBALL OFF

The baseball games between the Chinese Alohas and the Sailor Lads, and the Champions and the Picked team that were to be played tomorrow afternoon, have been declared off. There is a good deal of controversy among the different players about these games, and Pat Gleason, who has had the matter in charge, has decided that under the existing circumstances it would be better not to play. The games for Monday will be played unless something turns up unexpectedly.

YOUR WIFE AS EXECUTOR

In the administration of an estate we act with another appointee if desired. For example, your wife can be made one of your executors, and as the other we would relieve her of the arduous part of the work and keep the estate clear of legal entanglements.

Consultation about it will cost you nothing.

DOWN WENT THE KING OF LAYSAN

MAX SCHLEMMER PUTS OUT TO GUIDE IROQUOIS INTO LAYSAN
AND SINKS WITH ALL SIGNALS BRAVELY FLYING—HAD ONLY SIX WEEKS PROVISIONS LEFT AND WAS WORRYING—SEVEN-MILE MOUNTAIN.

King Max Schlemmer of Laysan Island and nearly lost his life in an effort to reach the United States ship Iroquois when she arrived off his little kingdom. He went out in a small boat, which was leaking badly, and he was so busy signalling the Naval vessel his advice, as to how to proceed, that he went down, boat and all, still waving his arms and hat. But he came up again and swam to a buoy where he clung with one hand and signalled with the other, until he was rescued by the Iroquois' boat.

Max Schlemmer and his subjects, when the Iroquois arrived, had food only for about six weeks on the island and was beginning to worry. He fully believed that the schooner Luka was lost. The Luka it was whose captain, Olsen, returned to Honolulu to report that he could not find Laysan. Schlemmer was afraid the Iroquois was not going to stop at Laysan and was very much rejoiced when he received the fresh fruit and provisions taken down by the big tug.

The Iroquois suffered some heavy weather off Midway but sustained no damage. She landed Dr. Campbell's relief for the cable station and took away three marines who were ill. She had instructions to look for about 30 miles of reef beyond Midway and kept a sharp lookout for breakers, but instead of breakers she found in the position reported, as the location of a submerged reef, by several vessels, a shoal is about the deepest spot in the Pacific ocean, a dive of six or seven to note that but a little way from this shoal is the deepest spot in the Pacific ocean, a dive of six or seven miles, so in steaming over the shoal, mentioned the Iroquois passed over a mountain seven miles in height.

The Iroquois arrived home at 1:00 o'clock this morning, docking at the Naval wharf across the U. S. S. Cincinnati.

FIRE INQUEST SHOWS THAT THE RECORD COULD NOT HAVE BEEN BURNED.

There are continued rumors about town of sensational developments to result from the kerosene warehouse fire investigation, which was resumed this afternoon at the warehouse, before a jury. The police and fire authorities are so far without any very definite clues, but various suspicious circumstances have been indicated by the course of the investigations made, and if certain witnesses can be found there may yet be arrests.

A. Deering was questioned as the first witness this afternoon. Much of Cathcart's questioning related to the position of the lost order book. Cathcart brought from the witness the statement that it must have been lying on a spot on the desk, which shows the green covering unburned.

R. Kinney, from near by stables, was the witness for whom Chief Thurston has been looking, being a man who was early on the scene and told Thurston of the fire up stairs. He ran to the fire in company with R. Duvauchelle but was not able to give any evidence of importance. Duvauchelle was next called.

Raymond Duvauchelle's testimony throughout was about the same as Kinney.

C. B. Reynolds, the government employee at the warehouse was the next witness called. He was asked as to the condition of the premises at the time he left on the Saturday before the fire. He stated that he had left the warehouse about one o'clock on Saturday afternoon and had left all the papers

TO HELP SAILORS

MEETING THIS AFTERNOON TO ARRANGE FOR BIG READING ROOM ON FORT STREET.

The Salvation Army through the kindness of W. W. Hall of E. O. Hall & Sons, has been given the use of the building on the mauka-Waikiki corner of Fort and Merchant streets, which is to be used as a reading and writing room for the use of the sailors of the fleet while they are here. Staff Captain Mrs. Bradley of the Salvation Army thought that by having a room where the sailors could read, write letters and play games, a number of the men would be kept away from saloons and other places of wickedness, and has arranged for music and other kinds of entertainment for the benefit of the fleet.

A meeting has been called for this afternoon at 3:30 in the parlor of the Central Union church to give people opportunity to support this good cause. Mrs. Bradley has spoken to a number of citizens and all have expressed their willingness to help entertain the boys. The following plans have been made by the Y. M. C. A. and the Sailors Home to entertain the crews of the Big Four which are due on Monday, September 2nd; a committee representing the two institutions will call on the commanders of the respective vessels on arrival and extend an invitation of welcome to the men, to use both the Sailors' Home and the Y. M. C. A. which are prepared to meet all their needs, being equipped with every facility for their spiritual and social welfare.

Entertainments will be given at the Association hall, and a good program is arranged, besides religious services will be conducted both at the home and the Y. M. C. A. and several outings to points of interest. All friends of both institutions are cordially invited to assist in every way to give the men a good time and make their stay in Honolulu a pleasant one.

TOWN HAS MANY CRIMINOLOGISTS

APPLICATIONS FOR CHESTER DOYLE'S JOB IN THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT ARE COMING IN FAST—LICENSE INSPECTOR FENNEL WOULD LIKE IT AND JIMMY BOYD IS READY TO BE A DETECTIVE.

Applications are coming in thick and fast to Attorney General Hemenway for the job of Territorial Criminologist formerly filled by Chester A. Doyle. The new Attorney General admits that he has been the recipient of numerous applications for this position by persons who are sure that they would just fit the place to a nicety, but he hasn't made any choice as yet and consequently won't give out much information concerning the aspirants.

Several new ones have been mentioned as hot on the trail today. Among these are Jimmie Olds, who at present is connected with the police force as a bicycle copper.

Then W. P. Fennell, the present sleuth of the Board of Liquor License Inspectors, it is said believes that he would like the Attorney General's office better than the work of warning saloon keepers to keep off the grass.
